1973 POWDER HORN

George Rogers Clark

Hammond, Indiana

Volume 39

To envision dreams into concrete realities,
One need only faith in himself and the world around him.
The past is an occurrence soon forgotten, when
The present reveals itself ready to mold into the future.
Yesterday was, tomorrow may be, but
Today is the first day of the rest of our lives . . .

An awakening to ideals, to additions
 A beginning of wonders and storms
 An everyday life—
 An answer to a dream—
 I ask myself, "What do I get,
 Where do I go, to whom do I turn?"
 Yet, I live for today . . .

I am an individual
Alone just a number, a statistic
But, I am unique
With different views and emotions
I am me . . .
But, what have I to look forward to
A gone yesterday, a remaining tomorrow—
Where will I find the strength
To continue today . . .

Suddenly I find myself . . .
 Not as an individual, not alone—
 Frightened and weak against the world
 I notice people; my friends
 As a person I try to be involved
 I recall the memories of yesterday,
 And look for the future in tomorrow
 But today I discover an awakening—
 Today . . . is the first day
 Of the rest of our lives!

Student Life

Endless experiences . . .
Unforgettable moments
Spin before me
In joy or distress
I await tomorrow

Summer instituters widen knowledge

Kathleen Kortokrax—Indiana University Honors Program in Spanish—San Luis Potosi, Mexico.

Experience and achievement paralleled for Clark students who attended summer institutes. Concentrated effort in their respective fields resulted in refined skills, knowledge, and techniques. Editors of the Powder Horn and the Pioneer News learned to develop new journalistic talents. Six delegates for Boys' and Girls' State focused their studies on the true functions of our city, county, and state governments. Student Council officers utilized a week in a Student Leadership Program. Drama Club members observed various aspects of the theater. In another area of study, Lenny Wachel spent his summer near the Baltic Sea studying marine biology. While John Hein attended a conservation program, Matt Kaplan participated in a biology course on the National Science Foundation Program. Steve Kristoff was engaged in a month long engineering program. Outside the classroom, the cheerleaders learned new techniques to enhance their performances. Looking ahead, two students sought college credit in the fields of philosophy, religion, and music. To many students, the summer proved to be most rewarding.

Pioneer spirit prevails as 33-31

The Booster Club display portrays a different version of television commercials by substituting the names of football players for various products.

"T. V. Commercials," the theme of Homecoming 1972, inspired the creativity of the student body as the Pioneers prepared homeroom signs and floats. Frizzies, the 1950's, daisies, and backwards day, along with the traditional Blue and White Day, exhibited the Pioneer spirit. The highlight of the Pep Assembly was the crowning of Jan Schmidt as Queen. The Booster Club lawn display, featuring a gigantic television set, was "tuned" into a Pioneer victory, as the football team rallied to defeat Gavitt by the score of 33-31. The band, the pom poms, and the twirlers combined their efforts during halftime. Winning floats vanquished tired bodies as first place awards were given to the sophomores and Spanish Club, while the seniors cheered to top honors in the yell contest. With victory in hand, the Homecoming dance ended a week sprinkled with the memories.

victory highlights Homecoming

Sue Miller makes it clear to all that, "I want to be Buehler!" as fellow Senior Skit members laughingly support her stand.

At the Homecoming dance, Margie Kosalko and Chris Bobos listen to the beat of Heavy.

Amidst a week of anticipation and excitement, 1972 Homecoming Queen Jan Schmidt finds even more delight while dancing in the arms of Del Radloff.

Karen Lien, Joanne Banas, and Elsa Aguirre loosen up with their own style of dancing.

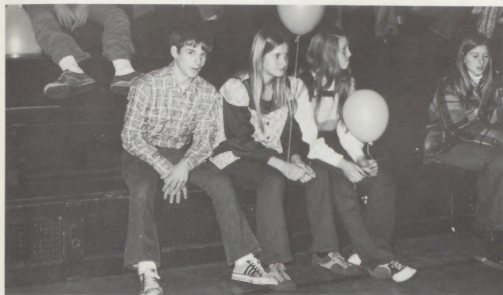

Midi coats prevail with several girls, while others choose their own styles.

School life sparks individuality

Joe Klen, Sandy Derybowski, and Kim Dafcik prefer to just sit and listen to the music of Bull Run at the Food Fair dance.

Student dress continued to be much the same as in previous years; however, individual tastes prevailed as students set their own dress code. Blue jeans took on a distinctive look as patches and embroidered designs added personality to them. While boys continued to sport the long hair, many girls considered the shorter hair styles. Several students were seen in body shirts, Palazzo pants, and overalls. Although many styles were seen around school, students usually wore what they were most comfortable in.

As an extra-curricular activity, the very few dances that were held were largely attended. If dancing was not one's thing, he was found relaxing to the music of the band.

Wearing blue jeans and assorted shirts at Signature Swing, senior girls typify many Clark students.

Flashy varsity basketball players warm up for their first "home" game in the new school gym.

auditorium becomes stage for variety

The singing duo of Myers and Van Delender provide entertainment at an assembly.

Learning and construction have much in common. Both efforts result in growth: abstract expansion of the mind and material growth of a structure. These processes occurred simultaneously, as this year marked the completion of the new addition to the school building. Physical education and athletic facilities, a new music department, four shop areas, and a carpeted study hall are contained within the structure, in addition to the long-awaited new gymnasium. Blueprints have been completed for the renovation of the auditorium and other departments in the main building.

Assemblies provided a learning experience outside of the classroom, along with the anticipated break in the routine schedule of classes. Besides being entertained, students were made aware of current issues demanding their involvement now and in the future. Students eagerly participated in a humorous demonstration of hypnotism, as well as in a debate concerning the legalization of marijuana.

Repeating different words and suggestions, Dr. Ross begins to hypnotize Ellen Excell.

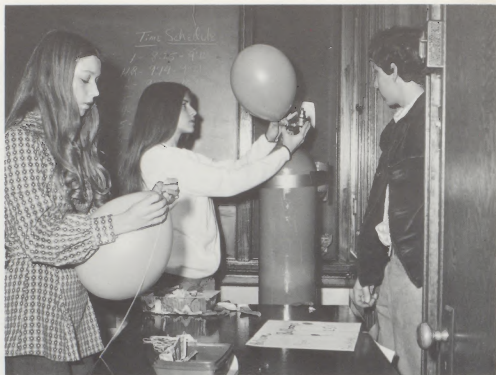

Alumnus Tom Tomko returns to Clark to once again exhibit his talents.

A monument signed by all the athletes who participated in the 1972 Summer Olympics forms the background for Sandy Derybowski in Munich, Germany.

Devoted workers Kathy Chariton and Janet Schmidt enjoy selling balloons to Food Fair participants while raising funds for future pom performances.

Clarkites travel to foreign countries;

Art Club members Debbie Marvel, Vicki Tkach, David Vanderberg, and Marla Dust anticipate customers to stop at the club's plastic flower stand at the Food Fair.

Working at the band-sponsored game room, Keith Kortokrax places a new balloon on the dart board.

Surprised that someone is taking her picture, Mrs. Kostopoulos prepares to photograph one of Ludwig II's castles in Linderhof, Germany.

successful Food Fair ends with dance

Despite the surrounding haze, the Washington Monument stands proudly.

Clark students displayed liveliness and zest at the PTA Food and Fun Fair. Several club-sponsored booths included a fish pond, a candle shop, a balloon room, and a jail. The festival was closed with a dance sponsored by the Student Council.

Juniors and seniors joined students from other Hammond high schools for a five-day tour of Washington D. C. Sights included in their tour were the White House, the Lincoln Memorial, and the colonial town of Williamsburg, Virginia.

During the spring vacation several Clarkites had the opportunity to tour Spain and Germany. Those who toured Spain visited the famous cities of Granada, Toledo, and Madrid, while those who traveled to Germany spent their ten days visiting the Rhine River, Munich, and the Black Forest, along with several sights in Switzerland, Austria, and Denmark.

Diane Jefchak gets a breath of fresh air near the Rhine River.

Students engage in intramurals,

Escorts wait at the punch line to get drinks for themselves and for their dates.

Helping out at the Student Council Winter Formal, Damon Homco serves fellow Clar-kites at the coat-check room.

Craig Spanburg and Melissa Moynihan share happy moments while dancing to the music of "Renaissance."

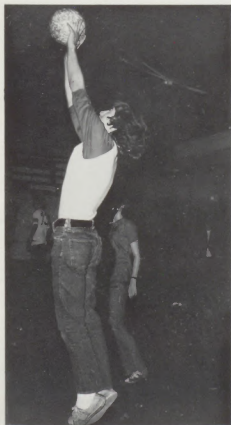

Jim Martinez pulls down a rebound as the intramural basketball team challenges the teachers.

take delight in Winter Formal

On the first day of intramural volleyball, homerooms battle against each other to spike the ball on the opposing court.

With the desire to help his homeroom win, Nick Stepnoski exerts his efforts in returning the volleyball.

As the basketball flies loose in the air, students and faculty wait to claim the ball.

A Christmas-time setting of candles, red stockings, candy canes, blinking lights, Christmas trees, and a romantic atmosphere added to the excitement of the evening. Sponsored by the Student Council for the first time, the Winter Formal gave female as well as male students the opportunity to ask their special someone to the semi-formal event. One hundred nine couples danced to the music of "Renaissance" at the Whiting Knights of Columbus Hall.

Another activity sponsored by the Student Council was the Intramural Sports Program. This activity gave several students who were not able to participate in either varsity or B-Squad competition throughout the school year a chance to play various sports. Football, tennis, basketball, and volleyball intramurals gave many students the chance to compete against their classmates and friends by the official rules.

Rings of circus talent show forth;

The ingenuity of youth was reflected in the presentation of "Sights and Sounds—Edition '73." The concert, made possible by the combined efforts of Serenaders and Stage Orchestra, included a medley of songs performed by the groups while on tour earlier in the month. "Who Can I Turn To?" and "Scarborough Fair" were among the selections played. Accompanied by the Stage Orchestra, the Serenaders performed "Days of Wine and Roses" and "Moonlight Serenade."

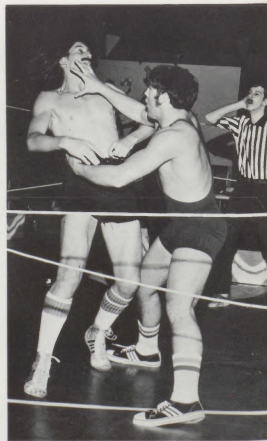

"Three Ring Circus," the theme of the Language Clubs' Talent Show, explicitly described the entertaining program. Students performed a variety of acts ranging from the most serious soap opera to the more comical skits during the program. The proceeds from the Talent Show went towards the Indiana University Honors Program Scholarship Fund.

Carefully following his score, Mr. Matusiak directs the orchestra with precision.

Marco Kraft, Tom Geffert, Rick Zehner, Joe Gaylor, and Jack Atwood don shaving attire in order to advertise Gillette razor blades at the Talent Show.

All-Star Wrestler Jack "The Ripper" Atwood finds himself close to defeat at the hands of Drew "The Bruiser" Kalapach.

'73 Sights and Sounds reflect tour

Stage Orchestra members provide modern interlude music at the Talent Show's night performance.

Skilled pianist Cathy Vasilak once again exhibits her talents while accompanying the Stage Orchestra at "Sights and Sounds of the 70's."

Even the teachers have talent as Mr. Huber, Mr. Yelton, Mr. Baranowski, and Mr. Vinyard become Alvin, Thaddeus, Simon, and Dave of the Three Chipmunks.

The top choral group, Serenaders, join in on the performance of "Sights and Sounds of the 70's."

Orchestra, Concert Choir combine to

Concert Choir and Orchestra combined efforts to produce the Broadway musical, "George M." The musical, presented on May 31 and June 1 and 2, played to sell-out crowds. Receiving standing ovations on all three nights, "George M." was the first musical staged at Clark since 1966.

The musical was based on the actual life of George M. Cohan. Cane bits and tap routines were characterized by Chris Bobos as George M.

The entire effort put into the memorizing of lines, the learning of dance routines, and the singing of verses was aimed at the final performance, and yet, when it came, no one really wanted it to end.

Chris Bobos portrays George M. Cohan as he leads the entire cast in a tribute to our country by singing about the flag.

Josie Cohan performs a dance solo to "Ring to the Name of Rose" with male members of a show that George is producing on Broadway.

Sam Harris, played by Jerry Filipiak, assists George while he reads telegrams at the party.

Jerry and his son George discuss how they are to tell whether or not the new show that they are to star in will be good.

produce Broadway musical, 'George M'

an enchanted atmosphere for 1973 Prom

Prom-going couples carry on a happy conversation while waiting for dinner to be served.

Breaking away from the traditional Prom this year, juniors decided to hold the entire event at the Scherwood Club in Schererville. Featuring a footbridge and a fountain, "On the Threshold of a Dream" themed the Junior-Senior Prom held on Friday, May 25. The night was perfect, as only Prom night can be. Amidst a romantic atmosphere, couples dined and danced to the music of Ken Holden and Co. The After Prom provided much entertainment for individual couples as they loosened up to the music of Guild. Several hours later most Prom goers donned informal attire to spend a peaceful Saturday at the Dunes.

Now, only a tender moment yet recalled, a pressed bouquet, a remembered dance, and a goodnight kiss not forgotten remain from that one special evening.

In the enchanting atmosphere provided at the Prom, Paula Sandilands and Hank Wintczak find delight in dancing together.

Before having their pictures taken, different couples share a discussion with each other.

at graduation ceremony in school gym

While talking to Mike Amazzo and Bob Slankowski before the graduation processional, Mark Wozniak makes sure that his cap will stay on his head.

The conclusion of one's high school career leaves him with a combined feeling of elation and sadness. Final examinations, commencement rehearsals, anticipation of summer jobs, a class photograph, and the last farewell to friends reinforce these emotions, while further contributing to the last minute hustle-bustle of Graduation Day.

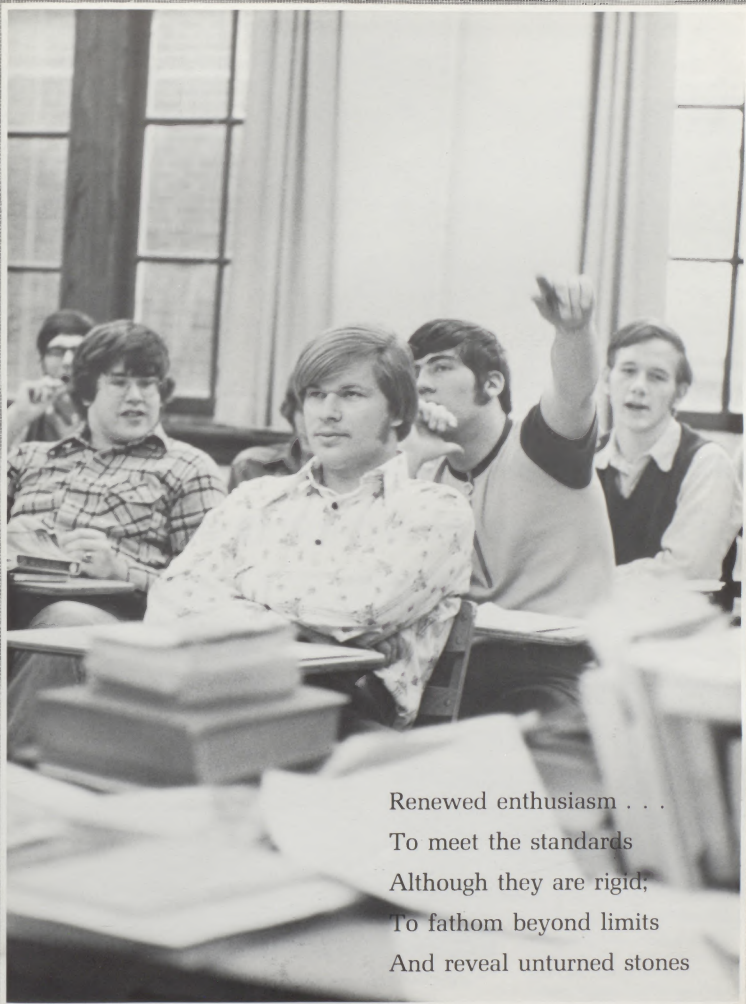

Seniors assembled for the class picture and Baccalaureate on Sunday, June 3. Following the services the Class of '73 met for the Senior Tea.

On Wednesday, June 6, at the evening Commencement exercises held for the first time in Clark's new gym, the 258-member Class of 1973, sitting together for the last time as an entire class, officially became alumni of G.R.C.

sophomores gain skills in speaking

eighteenth year at Clark.

Unlike a foreign language in that it is our own, Freshman and Sophomore English classes reviewed and experimented in different fields of literature. Freshmen experienced their first taste of William Shakespeare through the well-known lovers of Romeo and Juliet. Excessive repetition of basic grammar and sentence structure was put into action in the form of essays and themes covering a wide variety of topics.

Overcoming dry mouths, sweaty hands, and cold feet, sophomores familiarized themselves with speech writing and oral presentations. After completing a semester as amateur orators, students plunged into reading Dickens' novel, Tale of Two Cities, and analyzed short stories.

Mrs. Mary Ann Molchan came to Clark for the second semester to take Mrs. Alice Turner's place. Mrs. Turner taught Sophomore English.

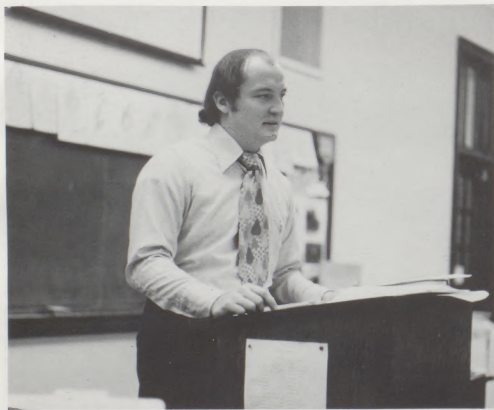

MR. STEVE SHEPARD . . . Junior English,

English classes examine literary works

MRS. CAROL HUBER . . . Basic, Developmental Reading . . . Freshman, Advanced Reading Club Sponsor . . . twelfth year at Clark.

Cartridge pen and typing paper were familiar tools for the Junior English student as he prepared to spend an evening with a theme topic. Juniors learned how history influenced American literature as they experienced the Salem witch trials in The Crucible and the roaring '20's in The Great Gatsby. Juniors also experienced the step-by-step process for writing a term paper.

Seniors culminated their English studies by acquainting themselves with some of the world's classics—Cervantes' Don Quixote and Chaucer's Canterbury Tales. Daily attendance was not required in the accelerated English class, enabling students to devote more time to independent study projects.

Students paced themselves against machines to improve specific skills in Developmental Reading class.

MISS DOLORES McCAMPBELL . . . Junior English, Chairman English Department . . . FTA Sponsor, Booster Club Sponsor . . . twenty-third year at Clark.

Clark hosts first exchange student

Beginning Spanish, French, and German students studied and drilled sentence structures, word pronunciations, and basic verb tenses in quest of an understanding of languages spoken in other areas of the surrounding world.

Students who progressed past the listen and repeat "parrot" stage began to probe the deeper areas of their respective languages. While concentrating on building their vocabularies and speaking fluently, students learned grammar uses by analyzing short stories, skits, and essays. Advanced students who desired to improve their skills even further read novels written by authors from various countries.

The small-sized Advanced Spanish class met before the regular school hours. The Spanish classes hosted Clark's first exchange student, Miss Andrea Saieg of Chile, who attended classes here for ten weeks.

Freshman Pam Kovach refers to her Spanish dictionary for the translation of an idiom.

3-D conic sections, oversized slide

MR. EMERSON ALDRICH . . . Advanced Algebra, Geometry, Chairman Math Department . . . thirtieth year at Clark.

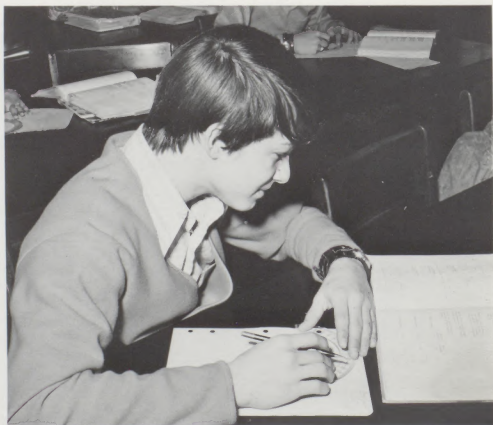

Business Math, based on actual office calculations, gave students the understanding and practice to mathematical problems awaiting them in their future careers. General Math classes reviewed and applied skills already learned to problems in everyday life. Many students found this course to be most rewarding, as it enabled them to continue their mathematical education.

While college bound freshmen learned the importance of algebra by factoring equations, graphing variables, and solving for the unknown, juniors deepened their knowledge in algebra by participating in an advanced course. Geometry students used logic, theorems, and the help of different constructions to understand the relationship between angles. By proving postulates and theorems, students also discovered what appeared to be equal may not have been. Preparing students for college proved to be the main goal of the math department.

Principles lead to understanding

With the technological advancements of the world today, the ability to reason becomes more important than ever before. Only through reasoning and understanding of the chemical and physical principles can one fully appreciate and assist in this progress. Math analysis, chemistry, and physics developed the use of reason and gave the students a background for his future studies in college. The math analysis course served as an introductory course to the higher levels of college learning, as it provided a background for college calculus and trigonometry. Basic knowledge concerning the electron and the origin of principles set the foundation for further studies in chemistry and physics. Therefore, an understanding of these courses increases one's appreciation of many mysteries of the universe.

MR. AL PETERSON . . . Biology, Health, Chairman Science Department . . . twenty-fifth year at Clark.

of insect, plant and animal life

The sciences provided the answer to many questions concerning the earth and the universe. Biology classes offered students the chance to look into the many wonders which nature conceals. Microscopes scrutinized the minute structures of one-celled plants and animals, while leaf collections enabled students to distinguish between trees and smaller plants, and weeds and flowers.

Students enrolled in Earth Science classes studied the earth and several of the other planets. Mineralogy, geology, oceanography, and astronomy were some of the various fields viewed in class, after which the knowledge was applied to daily living in several ways.

Students taking General Science were taught on a non-technical basis. Conducting class experiments allowed students to gain an understanding of a broader range of the sciences.

Historians relate past to present

MR. WILLIAM R. MUELLER . . . World Geography . . . nineteenth year at Clark.

Though the world and its many countries may differ in speech, dress, and government, similarities were noticed by viewing the countries separately through their historical and geographical outlines.

The United States faced many problems, wars, governmental squabbles, and various uprisings which made history. Juniors enrolled in the U.S. History class developed a deeper understanding of why America has prospered by studying their country through numerous classroom activities. World History classes took students through the realm of the Pharaohs to the Cold War of today.

Geography students studied the important landmarks of many countries around the world, pausing to better acquaint themselves with America.

Social Sciences explore all facets

MR. RICHARD MAJCHER . . . Economics, Sociology . . . Conservation Club Co-sponsor . . . eighth year at Clark.

MR. THOMAS ROMAN . . . Government, Psychology . . . Conservation Club Co-sponsor . . . ninth year at Clark.

With understanding behavior being the theme of the course, psychology students become more aware of man and his environment. Students created optical illusions and tested their sense of perception.

Sociology classes temporarily became encounter groups as they held sensitivity sessions. While some students delved into different facets of criminology, a select group attended Lafayette school to tutor.

Through comparing market to command economies, economists dealt with terms such as capitalism and Gosplan. Reports on less developed countries were submitted.

Learning about the functions of the political institutions in the United States and elsewhere proved to be enlightening to government classes. Realization of what goes on behind the scenes came to many.

Psychology students, Joan Ason and Kathy McGlinchy, test their sense of perception.

of man's surrounding world

Government students engage in a conversation concerning economic and political systems.

Economics student, Nancy Sowa, leads a discussion of the previous day's assignment.

MR. JOSEPH P. MILLER . . . Economics, Vocational Information, Chairman Social Studies Department . . . tenth year at Clark.

Students train for business careers

Between writing "chicken scratch," maintaining ledgers, balancing accounts, and punching out figures on calculating machines, many students were adequately prepared to seek jobs in the field of business.

Beginning shorthand classes concentrated on learning basic symbols, while advanced stenographers pushed to increase speed, and to improve transcription skills. Typing students pounded away and erased as data processors learned how to work with computers. Clerical practice classes consisted of nine weeks each of business machine usage and filing. "Debits" and "credits" became familiar words to bookkeepers.

Rounding out the curriculum, general business, consumer problems, business law and math, and business management aided job seekers.

MR. JIM CASEY . . . Typing, General Business . . . first year at Clark.

MISS BETTY REED . . . Beginning Shorthand, Advanced Shorthand and Transcription, Typing . . . third year at Clark.

Rita Shimala strives to improve her typing speed and efficiency.

Physical Education provides group

Clark's gym classes, consisting of freshmen and sophomores, were introduced to the fact that the training of the body is a vital part of the learning process. Concentrating on developing their skills in such activities as volleyball, basketball, baseball, football, gymnastics, and track, devoted effort was converted into ability. Both boys' and girls' gym classes were able to move from the old gym to the new facilities at the beginning of the second semester.

Basic rules and techniques of playing a game were taught. Teams were chosen, after which students utilized their knowledge gained in class. After changing out of gym shorts or bloomers, students often experienced sore bodies and legs.

MISS KAZIA MACEY . . . Girls' Physical Education . . . Girls' Athletic Club Sponsor . . . fourth year at Clark.

amateur seamstresses develop skills

Specified vocational training enabled both boys and girls to learn trades through shop and mechanical drawing. Acquainting themselves with different tools, beginning shop students built such items as bookcases, tables, and lamps for their own use. Advanced students gained more knowledge as they worked on various projects. Fundamentals in dimensioning and sketching were taught to beginning mechanical drawing students, while the advanced classes applied the basic principles to projects such as landscaping and home designs.

Sewing, cooking, and managing household problems were some of the goals reached in home economics classes. Food classes developed skills in cooking various meals, sewing classes expanded their wardrobes through sewing techniques, and Family Living dwelled upon married life.

The key word to the musical organizations and art classes, which enabled students to enjoy themselves, was creativity. Many students, artists, or musicians became emotionally involved with their work while preparing their ideas for the public to view.

Sacred, folk, spiritual, pop, rock, and classic were a few of the many types of vocal selections reviewed, which prepared students for the field of music. The skill and art of performing while marching with exactness was dwelled upon in band. The orchestra, stressing rhythm, quality, and dynamics, was often found practicing to perform with the Choral Department. Whether drawing or painting, artists often created projects similar to their personality and taste.

Playing her flute to "Festival Prelude" provides Dolores Galtens with a change from the daily routine of studies.

S. C. expands activities, creates center

Student Council, the governing body at Clark, supplemented the cultural needs of the students with many different assemblies, intramural programs, dances, and the newly formed student activity center.

A large turnout at the Winter Formal, sponsored for the first time by the Student Council, helped to make this dinner-dance one of the highlights of the year. Combined efforts of both Whiting and Clark Student Councils produced an outdoor summer concert. Plans were also made for a student lounge.

The Council planned an expanded curriculum to familiarize students with different types of classes. In order to acquaint themselves with student governments elsewhere, Council members participated in an exchange program with region high schools.

Cheerleaders promote enthusiasm

Sherry Blastick displays the spirit and exuberance needed to cheer a team to victory.

Amid the excitement of a fast-moving game, endless chants, cheers, and songs of the Pioneer fans were led by spirited cheerleaders. Instructing underclass girls for tryouts, planning pep assemblies, decorating locker rooms, and raising money for camp and uniforms contributed to make this a busy year for the 1972-73 cheerleaders.

Varsity cheerleaders Cindi Dobos, Jan Prucnal, Sheryl Finkelstein, Patti Hlebasko, Sherry Blastick, and

Kathy Gaitens attended a workshop at Franklin College, where they acquired new cheers and perfected their skills. After attending camp at Vincennes University, B-Squad cheerleaders Sandy Derybowski, Donna Quigley, Dolores Gaitens, Sue Wojtena, and Cathy Vasilak spent many hours practicing cheers.

Two freshmen squads of four cheerleaders each were chosen this year, enabling them to support both Homesteader basketball teams.

Pom Pons Leslie Droba, Sue Owczarzak, Nancy Sowa, and Carol Puplava, and Twirler Cindy Potasnik boost spirit at the first pep assembly in the new gym.

Performing to songs such as "Semper Fidelis" and "Darktown Strutter's Ball," parades, football and basketball half times, and the Language Clubs' Talent Show sparkled with the performances given by the pom pons, twirlers, and flag corps.

Smiling faces and earnest efforts were seen among the pom pons while entertaining half time audiences. In order to raise money for new outfits, the pom pons and flag corps, under the leadership of Kathy Chariton and Sue Olszewski respectively, sponsored the "Balloon Booth" at the Food Fair.

With their coordinated routines, the twirlers also provided unique enjoyment. Due to windy weather on Homecoming, the twirlers broke tradition by twirling fire at the Clark-Whiting game. Money raising projects consisted of a rummage sale and bake sales, while Cindy Potasnik and Crystal Conley served as leader and assistant leader.

During the year, members ushered spectators at home basketball games and operated the concession stand after its completion. Members received their letters at the fall sports banquet, while a large awards banquet was also held in the spring.

Spending activity periods and after school hours bowling and playing volleyball and basketball, freshmen through senior girls earned points to be admitted into GAC. As their points built up, members received numerals, monograms, and letters. Awards were given out at the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet.

capture fourth sportsmanship trophy

With the prospect of a victory close at hand, cheering block participants are encouraged to display their staunch team support.

Shuffling feet and chattering teeth was a familiar scene as anxious students anticipated the coming of the booster bus on chilly evenings. Along with ordering buses for sports events, the Booster Club organized a cheering block for basketball games. At the first home game in the new gym, the Booster Club members displayed their Pioneer emblomed t-shirts for the first time. Together with blue and white Clark beanies that the club sold at the Food Fair, the uniform appearance of the cheering block enabled spirited Pioneers to once again capture the sportsmanship award.

Homecoming Week served as the reward for a summer's work as the Booster Club display reigned proudly on the front lawn. Under the guidance of Miss McCampbell and Mr. Vinyard, the club's large general meetings offered an opportunity for all members to sound off their viewpoints and express their ideas. Paying one dollar dues, each member received a booster button.

The second semester enabled 39 juniors and seniors to enter National Honor Society. As usual, five percent of the senior class and ten percent of the junior class were elected this year. Candidates must maintain a 3.0 grade average and are evaluated on leadership, character, and service. Under the guidance of Mr. Corder, National Honor Society sponsored a check room for home basketball games. Donations provided funds for pins and certificates.

Juniors and seniors qualified for the Quill and Scroll Society by helping in the production of the Pioneer News or the Powder Horn, and by ranking in the upper third of their classes.

Although not actively participating in competition this year, Forensics members united careful planning and confidence into effective speech.

PH screening renders unique effect

Passing out over 1,000 boxes of Milk Duds to coincide with the subscription theme, "Don't be a 'Dud,' buy your yearbook now," keyed the start of the production of the 1973 Powder Horn. Staff members assisted Editor-in-Chief Mary Golding and Associate Editor Patti Jamrose in condensing an eventful year into 192 pages.

The bright cover design introduced the theme of the 1973 Powder Horn. "Today is the first day of the rest of our lives," a theme found in every day life as well. Chrome yellow spot color, applied to the initial picture of the book, meant to catch a reader's eyes from the very start.

Old linen screening used on division pages helped to make the yearbook unique. "Kickers," along with the placement of captions, aided in the identification of page content. The positions of copy blocks and headlines varied, creating a variety of layouts and coverage.

What happens when a number of potential journalists plunge into newspaperwork eager to incorporate their new ideas into the Pioneer News? They are confronted with approaching deadlines and mountains of dummy sheets, as well as plagued by lack of sleep, resulting from PN work into the late hours of the night. Under the patience of Mr. Muir, students became aware of many aspects of journalism, and thus were transformed from skeptics to experienced high school reporters.

One concept instituted for the year was that of two different staffs, one each semester. Linda Bragiel headed the staff first semester, while Judie Dziezak served as editor second semester. A welcomed result of this project was the involvement of more students on the paper.

New wind ensemble displays talents

Robin Kawecki puts in many hours of practice in order to assure a flawless band concert.

Clark band members added color and spirit to the Fourth of July parade, Christmas Parade, and Memorial Day Parade. But to achieve balance and perfection in concert work, Clark's band director, Mr. James Dycus, selected 61 of the more experienced musicians in the band to form the wind ensemble. The group became familiar with a wide range of musical styles from Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Scheherazade" to highlights from "Fiddler on the Roof." In preparation for the NISBOVA (Northern Indiana School Band Orchestra, and Vocal Association) band contest, musicians practiced sight-reading many new numbers. However, due to poor attendance for rehearsals, the entry was canceled.

Setting the Pioneer spirit to music at basketball games, pep band members entertained fans during half time shows while adding unison and dimension to the blue and white.

Fulfilling his role as a band member, Dan Buczkowski enlivens a half time performance.

concert band spends time preparing

Due to conflicting activities and a large enrollment, the Band Department was divided into two bands, marching band and concert band. By having a consistent turnout for rehearsals, marching band was able to perform with precision during half time shows, while concert band spent practice time in the band room preparing for future concerts. After the football season, the more experienced members of both bands were selected for the wind ensemble.

Getting used to a "big sound" was one of the adjustments for Clark musicians when the Band Department moved into the new addition. The larger room and improved acoustics made band members more aware of balance and intonation. Overcoming an echo effect was another adjustment, as the Winter Concert was held in the new gym this year. In the NISBOVA solo and ensemble contest, Clark musicians again brought back several firsts.

During fifth-hour band, trombonists work to improve accuracy as they share "Colorama."

Music groups unite to sponsor dance

The Stage Orchestra met on Tuesdays, and on Monday and Thursday evenings. Playing modern selections, the group exhibited many hours of practice at the Talent Show. The high point for their season proved to be a two-day spring tour. Members journeyed to Southern Indiana and Illinois, where they performed such songs as "More," "Rainy Days and Mondays," and "Pink Panther" for college, elementary, and high school students.

Students active in the Music Appreciation Club met on all four Thursdays. The purpose of the club was to instill an appreciation for various types of music in its members. Later in the school year the club attended a concert in Chicago and raised money for better equipment.

Members of both the Music Appreciation Club and the Stage Orchestra combined efforts and sponsored a dance in February.

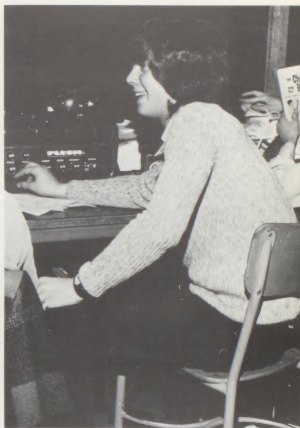

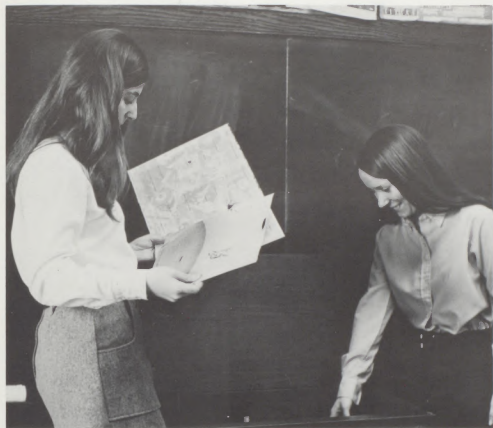

Fred Surret and Jim Porubianski harmonize on their basses as they take part in "Sights and Sounds of the '70's—Edition '73."

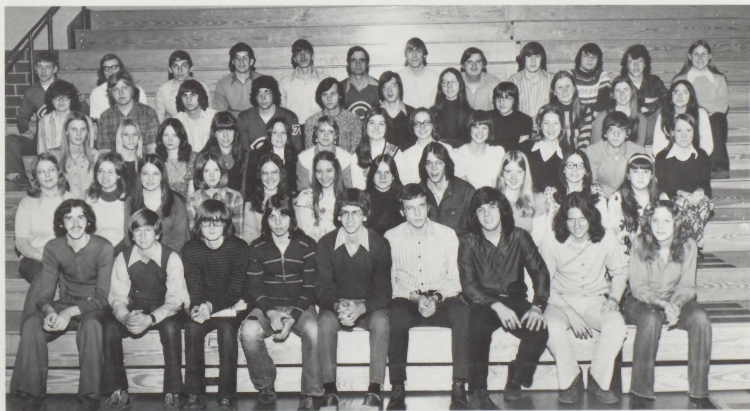

Orchestra members put forth all their efforts to make "Days of Wine and Roses" delightful.

Musical groups display talent on tour

Girls' Choir participated in all the concerts throughout the year; however, the Spring Concert proved to be their most imaginative. Turning the entire stage into a "Toyland," the choir presented several selections from Mother Goose, Charlie Brown, fairytales, and comic strips.

Concert Choir engaged in various community activities by singing for WJOB radio, the Woodmar Methodist Church, and Saint Ann's Home. The choir also had representatives participating in the All-State Choir and the solo contest. Presenting a "Musical Review" in the Spring Concert, a special program at the library, serious selections with the orchestra, and a spring tour compiled the Concert Choir's year.

The Serenaders, a select ensemble from the Concert Choir, presented concerts for various organizations throughout the year. The group also depicted the "fifties era" in the Spring Concert and accompanied the orchestra on tour.

All-State Choir members Greg Francis, Jack Atwood, Rick Joyce, and Sharon Robin combine voices to reach perfect intonation.

In the Spring Concert, Serenaders depict the "fifties era" by presenting the song "Smile."

Participating in the Christmas Cantata, Sharon Bobin instills the Yuletide spirit singing, "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

Choral groups harmonize at concerts;

The beginning groups of the Choral Department practiced reading music, harmonizing, and self-discipline to prepare themselves for the more advanced sections.

The Mixed Chorus, the beginning section for all singers, highlighted their year in the spring concert, singing songs composed by Cole Porter. The MWF Girls' Chorus also highlighted their season by singing themes from motion pictures.

The Daily Girls' Chorus staged and sang famous Shirley Temple songs for the spring concert while the Boys' Ensemble sang country and western songs. Both groups participated in the Fall and Christmas Concerts.

The Girls' Ensemble, a select group from the Concert Choir, received a first in contest.

For Spanish Club, "We've Got a Grip on 'Em" was this year's first place Homecoming float. At the Food Fair the club ran a taco restaurant, while in the spring members enjoyed the atmosphere of a Mexican restaurant in Whiting. In the Language Clubs' Talent Show, members performed a take-off on the Fischer-Spassky chess tournament.

German Club activities for the year began with the construction of its Homecoming float, "Tan Their Hides." The Christmas party this year featured games, refreshments, and a personal appearance by Santa Claus. Adding their talent to the Language Clubs' Talent Show, members performed a revised version of "The Student Prince." As with Spanish Club, funds went to the Honors Program Scholarship.

Although unsuccessful in its bid for first place, the German Club's float "Tan Their Hides" represents long hours of work.

French Club members were allowed to enrich their cultural background through playing games and learning French songs. The members also participated in the Language Clubs' Talent Show and held a bake sale to raise money for the Honors Program.

Despite the Clark stage being out of use, members of the Stage Crew, under the leadership of Mr. Matusiak, were far from idle throughout the year. The crew accompanied the choral department during their concerts at Gavitt and the Marion Guild.

Although the Thespians had a rather inactive year, they participated in a Drama Contest at Valparaiso High School. Winning an award for an all-around-best-actor, Rudy Winderlich brought a touch of pride to the Drama Club. They also sponsored a garbage can sale.

Thespians rehearse for their one-act play, "By the Waters of Babylon."

Art Club encourages self-expression;

Creativity, the main objective of the Art Club, allowed many students to use their imagination on individual projects. Students not in art class had time to do things which would not have been possible in a regular school day. Those who were enrolled in an art class were able to use their knowledge to do extra projects. Drawing, sketching, and painting kept students occupied during the entire activity period.

Many students had been avid rock collectors for many years; therefore, the Rockhound Club was formed, giving many the opportunity to study the structure and composition of rocks. During several activity periods, students involved themselves with tumbling and polishing rocks.

Conservationists visit game preserve;

Preservation of the Wolf Lake area has been the aim of both Conservation and Science Projects Clubs. Conservation Club, under the guidance of Mr. Roman and Mr. Majcher, purchased trees for planting and conducted a tree count of the area. Two field trips to the Jasper-Pulaski State Game Preserve furthered their concern for the environment.

Science Projects Club, along with Mr. Oprisko, their sponsor, concentrated their efforts on mapping the bottom of the lake. This process involved plotting a course on the lake and using a sounding device to determine the depths at various points. This data is the basis for current and temperature studies in the future projects of the club.

Card players bid for experience,

For many students, Pinochle Club was a chance to learn a card game that would give them many hours of fun and relaxation. The club was able to meet every Thursday under the guidance of Mr. Watkins and Mr. Williamson. Beginners concentrated on learning the fundamentals of the game, while players with more experience directed their attention toward the improvement of their abilities. The club brought together students to experience the joy of winning, or the sadness of defeat.

Bridge Club, which met every other Thursday, offered students the opportunity to learn another popular card game. The newer members acquired the basic skills to play, as the advanced players renewed their strategy while discovering new ways to winning the game.

In anticipation of Jennifer Navta's next move, Sue O'Drobinak selects a pinochle discard.

Deluna surpasses 1000 yards;

With multiple offenses and defenses, Clark fans were treated to an exciting, explosive style of football in a 5-4 season.

Overtime games proved to be a problem as the losses to Munster and to Roosevelt came after a tie in regulation play. Against Washington, with a slot I formation, Jerry Deluna was able to roll up 172 yards in the win. Homecoming against Gavit proved to be a wild offensive display with Mark Lewandowski scoring three TD's. Whiting was an easy win in the final contest, but in this game Deluna surpassed the 1000-yard rushing mark for a single season. He also finished his career with a total of 1878 yards and was ranked an All-State Player. Jim Martinez, the other senior back, finished his career with 925 yards on the ground. Besides Deluna, Drew Kalapach, Kurt Schoknecht, and Rick Zehner were awarded All-State honors in the Honorable Mention category.

Jerry Deluna, who finished the year with over 1000 yards rushing, turns on the speed against two Bishop Noll opponents.

The defense becomes the offense, as Butch Kovach makes his way down the sidelines following an interception against Tech.

Running out of the wishbone formation, Marco Kraft runs a power sweep against Morton.

Dave Grigson, who totaled 151 yards receiving, reaches for a Mark Lewandowski pass.

Clark's defense, led here by Jim Buehler and Butch Kovach, moves to stop a Wildcat run.

Settlers prepare for next year;

Finishing the year 2-4, the B-Squad employed the platoon system to make full use of the 27 men squad in an abbreviated season. Leading the way for the offense were Ralph Revers at quarterback, and Vince Catania, Jack Kowal, and Jim Sheets at the running back position.

Acting as a training ground for the next season varsity, the frosh football team finished with one of its best records in the history of the sport at Clark. Defense was the high spot of the team, allowing only 24 points while racking up 93 counters, and holding the opposition scoreless on four occasions. Gavit's defeat proved to be the biggest win of the season, but the triumph over Roosevelt was the hardest fought, in a tight 6-0 contest.

Quarterback Rich Osborne scrambles out of his blocking pocket to gain yardage.

Clark's defensive line waits for the next play from the Gavit 25-yard line.

Coach Shield's Harriers, paced by Larry Cuculic, Mark Jakubovic, Greg Drapac, and Tom Bobos, finished with a 7-3 Varsity record. Cuculic set a school record of 12:56 for the new two and a half mile course. He and Jakubovic were selected among the top ten conference runners—a highlight for the past season and an honor for Clark.

Dropping its first match, but then winning five in a row before losing to Hammond High, the Tennis team was able to capture a second place finish in the Lake Shore Conference. Doug Bryson and Dan Rokosz, the second doubles team, finished with the best record on the squad, 8-2, while being undefeated in conference. Tom Kruczek finished with the second-best record in the conference and 8-3 for the season. Playing singles, Dan Rudzinski was able to advance to the semi-finals in the Sectionals before dropping out.

Varsity shares Conference title;

One of Clark's top scorers, Jim Matej shoots a free throw against the Brickies.

In regular season play, the varsity basketball team rolled up 12 wins by ten points or more and tied for the conference championship to cap an 18-2 slate for the year. The round-ballers began the season with victories over Lake Central and New Albany. Falling to South Bend Washington, the squad emerged victorious over top teams Gary Roosevelt, E.C. Washington, then ranked number two in state, and Hobart. Bishop Noll handed the Pioneers their only other regular season setback. An 11-game winning streak countered the defeat, including South Bend LaSalle's loss to Clark, on a last second Radloff basket.

The sectional tourney's early action went according to predictions, with Morton and Munster falling to Clark to set up the final contest against Hammond High. Tied at the end of 32 minutes of play, 57-57, the Wildcats ruined Clark's dream of four consecutive sectional titles, with a 70-62 overtime triumph.

Rich Bobby drives into the lane and prepares to lay the ball up toward the basket.

Moving on the baseline, Joe Hovanec sets up a play against the Trojans.

Using one of his patented baseline drivers, Larry Cuculic moves past a Hobart defender.

Homesteaders finish third in Tourney

Frosh leading scorer Mike Skertich sets on a jumper from the outside.

Although the B-Squad began slowly, Coach Bocken's team rallied late in the year to finish the campaign at 8-13. Their 51-49 overtime triumph over Gary Roosevelt was the most exciting victory of the year, while the Morton win began the late season comeback for the Settlers.

In an attempt to get the maximum amount of playing time for each of the players, there was no set starting lineup for the season. Those who did see considerable floor time were Steve Cheatham, Larry Gaspar, Mark Lewandowski, and Carl Palko.

Relying on hustle and defense, the Frosh battled their way to a 7-11 season. In the midseason tourney, Coach Renz's men finished third, then won two of their final three games to end the season on a high note, including a victory over E.C. Roosevelt.

Wrestlers place first in Conference

Roger Kraft tries to block an attempted escape by his opponent.

Clark's varsity wrestlers, aided by a perfect record, brought home a conference championship this past season. The team finished with an overall record of 9-1. Leading the team were Kurt Schoknecht with a record of twenty wins, four losses, and one tie, Jerry Deluna, 18-3, Jim Buehler, 18-5, Tom Kozlowski, 16-2-1, Dan Kiraly, 16-6, John King, 14-5-1, Rich King, 13-5-3, and Mark Buehler with a 12-4-1 record. The highlights of the year proved to be a fourth place in the Portage Tournament, fourth in the Hobart Tournament, fifth in the Sectionals, and a first in the Conference Tournament. Deluna and Schoknecht both captured first place in the Sectionals, and Kurt went on to finish second in the Regionals.

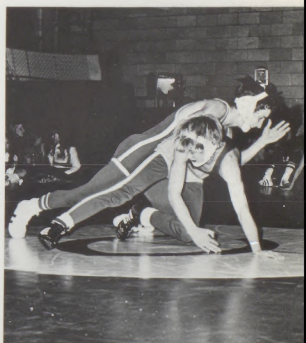

The B-Squad, led by outstanding underclassman Fred Behrens, ended the season with a 3-6 record. Behrens and Mike Healy placed second in the Reserve Tournament.

Three cindermen set school records

Under the leadership of captain and most valuable player Rich Porter, Clark's varsity track team finished the season with a 5-4 record. Rich, who ran a 21.5 in the 180 yard low hurdles, Marco Kraft, who sprinted to a 22.5 in the 220 yard dash, and Larry Cuculic, who raced to a 4:22.8 in the mile run, all set school records and were the only team members to advance to the Regionals. The highlights of the year were when Clark took first in its own relays and third in the Rensselaer Relays.

The Frosh-Soph track team finished the 1973 year with an admirable 6-2 record and has many fine prospects.

Vince Catania anchors the relay team to another first place.

Clark's golf team, led by senior co-captains Don Bugaski and Tom Kruczek, took fourth place in the conference with a 9-5 record. Mark Sotak, Al Lesar, Ken Kasney, and Rich Hastings rounded out the starting nucleus that added to the team's 11-9 overall record. The highlights of the year were third places in the Conference and City Meets.

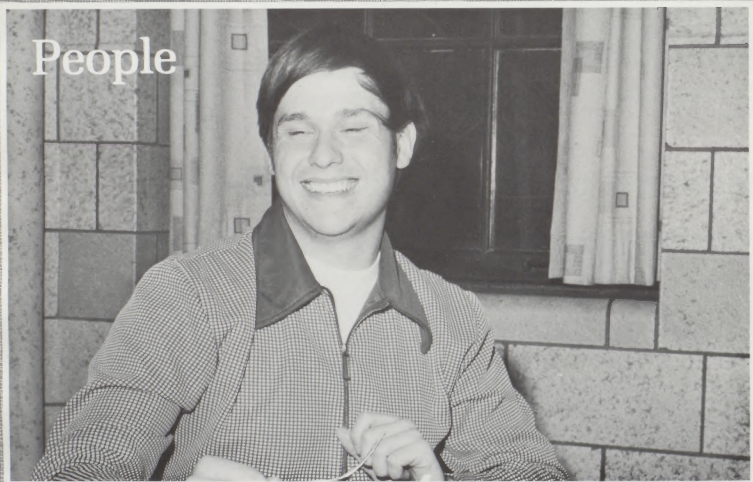

A more productive offense was the key feature of Clark's soccer team for this season. The two victories were in convincing fashion over Gavitt and Tech. Although Clark tied for the final playoff position they did not compete for the championship as they lost the coin toss to determine the final position.

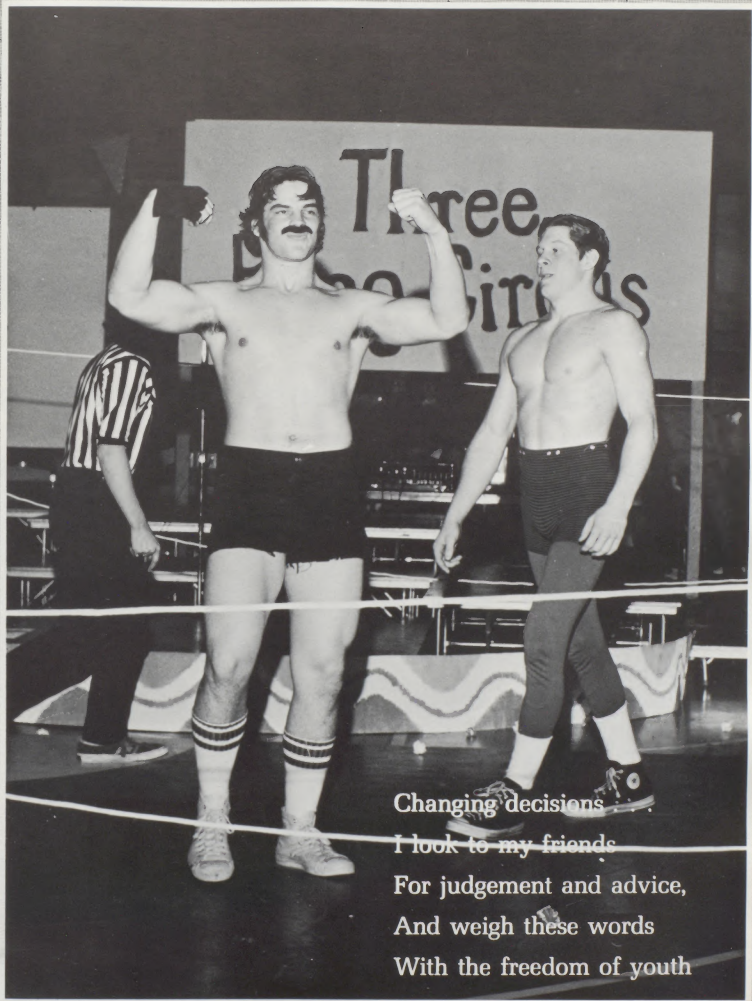

Instead of using the blasting method, Mark Sotak employs his putter to get out of a sand trap.

Four years of effort bring awards,

Year after year it has been the practice to recognize those seniors who have displayed outstanding efforts in achievement. Judie Dziezak was named the Clark recipient of the DAR Award. A total of eight Junior Rotarians were chosen to represent Clark, one each month, at Rotary International Club meetings. From the Class of '73 came three Merit Finalists and two Commended Scholars who had shown high scores on their NMSQ Tests.

The Top Ten of the senior class was determined from their grade-point average after seven semesters' work.

Scholastically leading the class was Kathleen Kortokrax, while Diane Jefchak presided as salutatorian. Jan Schmidt accepted the title of 1972 Homecoming Queen, while Mary Biestek and Mary Jo Buksar reigned as senior class attendants. The band, M & R Rush, provided the music for the Senior Class Dance, "Senior Superstars." Ideal Seniors, chosen by their fellow classmates on the basis of popularity, characteristics and success, were announced at the dance. Four years of work, accomplishments, and memories came to an end on June 6 as many of the seniors began to accept the future.

juniors hold Prom at Scherwood Club

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS AND SPONSORS—B. Kovach, pres., Mr. Shepard, spon., P. Dudzik, v. pres., J. Osborne, treas., Miss Mazur, spon., L. Cloghessy, sec.

Emerging from the laughter and frenzy in the assembly line of folding and fluffing paper flowers, the towering Homecoming float, "Wipe 'em Out," earned third place honors for the Class of 1974. Linda Jakubczyk represented the juniors in the Queen's Court. In an attempt to display additional class unity, the juniors were unable to present their play due to faulty stage equipment.

A controversial campaign for Student Council offices sparked the juniors into action. Several paper drives and a donut sale were the projects completed by the juniors in order to raise badly needed funds. After sponsoring a successful Prom at the Scherwood Club, juniors anticipated their senior year.

Catania leads class for second term

Displaying a united spirit, the Class of '75 captured a first place ribbon in the Homecoming float competition. Building the creation, "We're the Wonder Team, We Don't Loaf Around," the sophomores used an unprecedented van as the shape for a gigantic loaf of bread. Lydia Quattrin was chosen by the sophomore class as their representative in the Homecoming Court.

Cherished as a symbol of pride and class unity, sophomores chose from a variety of styles and colors of class rings. Several money-raising projects were planned, while Mr. Cameron and Mr. Williamson served as class sponsors.

Gulvas chosen to lead freshmen

Homecoming festivities offered the graduating Class of '76 a chance to become familiar with the various aspects of high school life. Working together for the first time as a symbol of class unity, the freshmen constructed their Homecoming float, "Dry 'em Up!" Parthena Antoniadis held the honor of freshman attendant in the Queen's Court.

As the year progressed, freshmen became more acquainted with their classes, events, and extra-curricular activities. Although officers were chosen late in the year, the class began thinking of the future. Mr. Huber and Miss Richards assisted the class as sponsors.

Board faces problems, makes progress

From the balcony, Mr. Lockey gets an overall view of the construction of the new gym.

Changing . . . growing . . . becoming better. All changes, though minute in their beginnings, result in an overwhelming rush of success. The completion of the new building, like the fulfillment of a dream, highlighted the school year. Much of the success of '73 is attributed to Clark's fine administration. The Board of School Trustees continued its plans as the renovation of the old building progressed.

A tremendous and never-ending amount of the true Pioneer spirit was exhibited throughout the year by the school Principal, Mr. Lockey. His cheerfulness and enthusiasm were reflected, as always, through his pride and devotion to Clark. More than proud of the new addition, Mr. Lockey acknowledged this as an important phase of his career.

Mr. Lockey, Principal, contemplates the prospects of the facilities of the new addition.

Mr. Forrest Welch, Freshman and Junior Counselor, tidies up his file cabinet. This is his fourth year at Clark.

Mr. Everett Thomas efficiently fulfills his new role as Dean of Students. He has been a member of Clark's staff for 19 years.

Mr. Joseph Esterhay, Assistant Principal, smiles after an active day. He has been on Clark's staff for six years.

Miss Doris Myers, Senior Counselor, assists in preparing students for college and future careers. She has been at Clark 14 years.

Clark schedules seven-period day

Speaking at Freshman Orientation, Mr. Paul Guiden plays his roll as Freshman and Sophomore Counselor of two years.

Scheduling a seven-period day and issuing computerized report cards brought on many technical difficulties for the Guidance Department. Nevertheless, the counselors found time to confer with individual students concerning future plans best suited to their desires and abilities. Supervising the Guidance Department and sponsoring National Honor Society were assignments for Mr. Corder. Miss Myers directed the seniors through their last year, while Mr. Welch and Mr. Guiden combined to take care of the freshmen, along with their regular loads of juniors and sophomores.

The responsibility of minimizing disciplinary problems was assumed by the new Dean of Students, Mr. Thomas. Assistant Principal Mr. Esterhay often found himself occupied in planning faculty and activity schedules, along with securing the services of substitute teachers.

Mr. Arnold Corder, Supervisor of Guidance Department, also sponsors National Honor Society. He has been at Clark for over 20 years.

Clark staffs work behind the scenes

Planning menus, keeping the kitchen in order, and serving a variety of foods were the requirements of the cafeteria ladies. Even with the rising cost of living, Clark's cafeteria seemed to offer the best bargains in food prices.

Along with school business transactions and routine office work, the main-office secretaries were kept busy meeting the needs of students. Mrs. Allen was seen assisting the counselors and filing and maintaining student records.

Working behind the scenes into the wee hours of the night, Clark custodians were responsible for the general upkeep of the building and the school grounds. While the nurse was responsible for the general health of the student body, the librarians maintained the library and hunted down books in circulation.

Office ladies, Mrs. Juanita Wagner, Mrs. Laura Carlson, and Mrs. Linda Muscarella, pause a moment at the main desk anticipating a busy day.

The librarians, Mrs. Dobak and Mrs. Boyden, check a list of recently printed books.

Mrs. Allen, guidance department secretary, alphabetizes her files.

Mrs. Michalak, the school nurse, takes the pulse of Sue Owczarzak.

Events occur all around us
And still we wonder where do we go,
What will we encounter,
And to whom can we turn.
If this is peace, is there honor?
By what means will we achieve our end—
Watergate affair, Pentagon papers,
Pot, acid, booze, vandalism . . .
Good or bad, each day is unique
Our actions today reflect our tomorrow.

Editors say thank you, we quit!

After spending a whole school year searching for the right words and the right pictures to make this book the best ever, we found that our last step in completing it was to search for words of appreciation.

Deadline times were very hectic. To those who gave up Saturday mornings and after-school hours to develop pictures and write captions and copy blocks, we say thank you for meeting with our never-ending demands.

One special person who was always around to guide us was our dear advisor, Mr. Muir. With his strong faith and true desire to be of help at all times, along with the many extra hours of work put in by certain individuals, we were able to make the 1973 Powder Horn a success.

A special thanks to M.J. Holloway and Company for donating over 1,000 boxes of Milk Duds for our subscription drive, and to Mr. R.E. Hutton, photographer, for his picture of the gym on page two.

Thank you.

Mary Golding, Editor-in-Chief
